

I am a fast paced spirited individual that always enjoys having something to work on. Moving nine times before starting college has helped me become an outspoken, people person. This unusual up bringing has also taught me to be acceptant of change and different ideas and view points. Living everywhere from large metropolitan areas of St. Louis and Denver to the small farming community of Anthony, Kansas has broadened my exposure to an array of different environments.

My design work encapsulates this into one uniform design. I am an ambidextrous designer using a blend of hand rendered artwork, textures and typography with new media. I find inspiration in the beauty of nature pulled from my love of backcountry hiking. Every new design scenario brings excitement and challenge; pushing me further to stretch my imagination. I tend to avoid the obvious and work out solutions that are both ambiguously acute to their message, and powerful.
